

Six hours in ... the Westside

Urban chic, posh shops and molecular milkshakes

July 08, 2010

In recent years, the Westside has earned a reputation as an industrial enclave where lofts and condos coexist in urban bliss with abandoned warehouses and graffiti-tagged walls. But this ain't just a gritty-chic bedroom community. The Westside boasts an ever-growing list of top-notch restaurants, bars, shops and cultural attractions.

4 p.m.: High-end provisions

The Westside Urban Market on the corner of Howell Mill Road — and the shops that stretch down adjacent Huff Road — are a popular destination for those looking for the latest posh fabrics, antiques, and home wares. Refresh yourself in the midst of shopping by grabbing a snack at Star Provisions, the gourmet store whose sandwich and baked goods counter fronts Bacchanalia, arguably the city's finest restaurant.

[editorial]

[The Reynolds Group Inc.] [www.thereynoldsgroupinc.com]