Atlanta celebrity chef Richard Blais, who recently won Bravo's popular Top Chef-All Stars, is hitting the road as part of the fourth annual Top Chef: The Tour. The tour hits 21 cities beginning today in St. Louis, and features chefs competing in timed challenges using local ingredients. Residents of each tour city can vote on ingredients at the show's website, according to Bravo network.

Tickets for the shows are free, but limited. Most tickets are available only on the day of the show and are first-come, first-served.

The Top Chef competition hits Atlanta April 25 at Westside Urban Market on Howell Mill Road.

Perhaps contestants can also drop in at Blais' popular Atlanta restaurant Flip Burger Boutique, which has a location several blocks down Howell Mill Road, and another on Roswell Road in Buckhead.
